

HARRISON AT HOME.

He Takes a Walk and Does Not Get Excited—Perhaps the Coolest Man in the Land.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 6.—5:30 P. M.—Harrison passed the afternoon at home. About 3 o'clock he went out for a walk, the weather being bracing. Returning at 4, he found a bundle of telegrams awaiting him from all sections of the country. They give him estimates of an encouraging character in California, New York and Connecticut. There were a large number from points in Indiana, assuring him of heavy gains. While manifesting interest in the contents and assurances brought by telegrams, he is by odds the coolest person about the household. Numerous correspondents have called, seeking to talk with him, but to all he sends polite declinations. His house to-night will be as strictly private as any other citizen's, his friends having arranged to receive returns in the city and wire them out. He is sending no replies to his many telegrams, nor is it likely he will give out for publication to-night any of the telegrams he may receive at a later hour. The Associated Press correspondent had a pleasant chat with him this evening, with his little grandson on his knee. He manifested not the slightest uneasiness, worry or excitement. The same may be said of Mrs. Harrison, who goes about her household duties as usual, occasionally entering the library and reading telegrams.

A FEMALE EAGLE.

Covered With a Thick Growth of Fine White Hair.

A female child, whose parents reside on Fourteenth avenue, north, was born on the 14th of March, 1887, and at birth was covered from head to foot with a thick mass of fine white hair. The parents were greatly mortified, and attempted to remove the hairy covering but the attempt proved unsuccessful, and later the hair grew in denser form than ever. Physicians were summoned, but they were unable to prescribe a remedy, and advised the parents against any further attempt at eradication.

The little girl is now 16 months old, and is perfectly healthy and as lively as a cricket. Her growth has been perfectly natural, with the exception that the teeth have not appeared, as is usual with children of that age. The hair upon the cheeks and chin is short and thick, but longer on the nose and forehead, and when permitted to hang naturally completely covers a pair of bright blue eyes. The ears are filled with fine white hairs, which are now between three and four inches long, corresponding with the growth on the forehead. At birth the hair on the back was several inches in length and the limbs were thickly covered, giving them the appearance of being incased in a diminutive toboggan suit, and the same condition exists, except that the friction of the clothing has evidently shortened the hair.

When undisturbed the hair comes out again and successfully defies all attempts at repression or curtailment. The natural covering of the head is also exceptionally heavy and long, but a much darker shade than the silky mass of the body and nearly concealing the features. Notwithstanding the strange growth, the appearance of the little girl is by no means repulsive, as is apt to be the case in instances of phenomenal development. The father, who is a contracting plasterer by occupation, has been unable to keep the little one, who is the third child in the family, from being seen by outsiders, and its strange appearance has attracted attention.

Mayor Ames and other physicians will vouch for the accuracy of the statements made in regard to the case.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

The Best Business.

Next Monday will be pay day for the beet farmers. It is expected that not less than $40,000 will be paid out for beets that day. About 200 tons of sugar have been sent to the refinery from the beet factory. Samples of the sugar are equal in color to the better grades of colored sugar, are very sweet, and the crystals are large and clear. About seven carloads of pulp are being shipped daily from the beet factory to Henry Miller, Gilroy. Farmers who have fed pulp to their stock are well pleased with it. Cattle like it and it is fattening feed.—Santa Cruz Surf.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 6.—Up to 12:30 this afternoon, 19,000 votes were polled in the city. This surpasses the heaviest previous record at the same hour by 4,000 votes. Heard, the Republican candidate for Governor, is running ahead of his ticket throughout the State. The Harrison electors are receiving the full Republican votes.

Two men in Seattle have made a novel bet. If Harrison is elected the Cleveland man is never to take another drink. If Cleveland is elected the Harrison man is to drink no more.

In a speech Tuesday Gladstone said that he considered it his duty to remain in public life until the Irish question is definitely settled.

A Tribune bulletin says that the next House of Representatives will be Republican by 20 to 25.

Manner of Curing Alfalfa.

A correspondent writes from a point in Washington Territory stating that the cultivation of alfalfa has recently been undertaken there upon quite an extensive scale, and that it promises well. But considerable difficulty is met in curing and handling the hay so that the leaves do not drop off while loading or unloading, leaving nothing but the woody stalks to go to the stock. This is a difficulty which all beginners in alfalfa growing have to contend with, and it is indeed the only objection that can be urged against the cultivation of alfalfa. But a little care will obviate this difficulty and enable the farmer to handle the entire crop without loss. In the first place, alfalfa should be cut just as soon as it is well in blossom. Do not wait for all the stalks to bloom, but as soon as the flowers are generally open put the mower on. If there be any delay in this the stalks will become so hard and tough that stock will not touch them, while, when cut at exactly the proper stage, there will be no waste but every particle of the hay will be greedily consumed. If the weather be very warm the hay should not be allowed to lie more than two or three hours after cutting before it is raked into windrows, and by nightfall of the same day it should be all in the cock. Do not allow it to become dry before raking. Rather should this be done immediately after it is well wilted and before much drying has been done. As the hay will dry a great deal after being cooked up in a warm climate, there need be almost no fear of raking too quickly. If the field be not too large it will be found that morning is the best time to haul the hay or stack it. At midday the hay becomes very dry and brittle, and large quantities will be lost. As these are the most nutritious parts of the plant, it is well to cover the bottom of the wagon tightly with boards so that the loose leaves may not be lost. These should be put at once into the mangers, where they will be greedily devoured as a sort of bonne bouche by all kind of stock. More or less dropping of leaves cannot be prevented, but if the raking be done quickly after cutting, and the hay then be hauled quickly to the barn, the loss will be reduced to a minimum.—S. F. Chronicle.

Sainfoin and Alfalfa in Missouri.

At the Missouri Agricultural College experiments were made last year with various kinds of forage plants, including Alsike clover, three varieties of red clover, sainfoin (onobrychis sativa) and alfalfa. The results of the experiments with the two last-named plants are of special interest in California. Little is practically known here yet with reference to sainfoin, though considerable interest has been excited here concerning it. The seed of this plant was sown early in the Spring, and it headed out the latter part of April. In May the seed was ripe, but the grass remained green for a long time subsequently. It had a good leafage, and promised well both as a pasture and for hay. It was in bloom by May 1st, and seemed to be very attractive to the bees, which covered the blossoms thickly. This would seem to furnish a good hint to bee-keepers in California, who have been slow to adopt the Eastern idea of planting crops especially for the purpose of furnishing forage for their bees. It may be remarked by the way, that in Colorado much alfalfa is grown for this purpose, and the honey made therefrom is of exceptional whiteness and good flavor. The experience with alfalfa at the station was equally good with sainfoin. It was found to resist the cold weather perfectly and grew vigorously, notwithstanding the fact that other grains were backward. The drought prevented a large crop from being harvested, but enough was done to demonstrate that it is a valuable forage plant in Missouri as elsewhere when it has been experimented with.—Southern Californian.

THE TREE FOR THE FOOTHILLS.

The fig is the coming tree for the foothills of the Sierras. Its enormous growth and the vast amount of fruit it bears, its adaptation to a dry climate, the fact that after the first years it is not dependent upon irrigation, and the ease with which its crop can be cured are telling points in its favor. It comes into bearing as early as the peach, lives as long as the orange, bears as prolifically as the apple, is not subject to attacks from scale or insect pests, and will thrive with little cultivation—great items toward making it a popular tree for planting. With fine, fresh figs, neatly and attractively put up, a wide market will be opened. And when we take into consideration the fact that the fig is the most healthy fruit the earth produces, it is evident that fig-planting is yet in its infancy in the State.—Chicago Chronicle Record.

"MIRROR OF IRELAND."

Next Wednesday evening Sullivan's Ideal Comedy Company will appear in M. Kissick's Opera House. The company has been increased with new people. Of it the Provo, Utah, Enquirer says:

Of a unique character was the "Mirror of Ireland" in the theater last evening by the Dan Morris Sullivan company. A panoramic view of Ireland, consisting of numerous fine and realistic scenes of the "old sod," with brilliant acting in front of them by "Barney," "Norm" and other characters, was what made the people present last evening so full of enthusiasm. The scenes in Dublin, Cork and Londonderry, the ruined castles, the noted monuments, the storm on the sea, and above all, the moonlight scene on the "Lakes of Killarney," was simply grand. In the last scene, the waters glittered in the moonlight whenever the luminary of the night peeped from behind the thickening clouds, until one fancied that he was really beholding a moonlight evening on those lakes made so famous in Irish song. It was a fine performance, and the people were never more satisfied.—Provo (Utah) Enquirer, Sept. 28, 1888.

Franktown went Democratic on the head of the ticket, but the complete vote has not been received here.

THE "MIRROR OF IRELAND."—The Ogden Standard of September 27th says: Last evening the Dan Morris-Sullivan Co. drew a crowded house at their performance. The acting was hugely enjoyed by one and all and least none of its richness by being repeated but rather to the contrary. Mr. Sullivan's imitation of Barney and Dutchy, two widely different parts, was skilful and amusing, and brought the house down in roars of laughter. At the close of the performance the youngsters were showered with prize boxes which Barney drew out of his large oilcloth carpet-bag, which he had brought from Duteoland. The performance was a grand success.
THE COMING EVENT.—Louis James and Marie Wainwright at McKissick's Opera House next Tuesday night in Sheridan Knowles' romantic tragedy, "Virginus," should not be missed by lovers of realistic acting. Both are stars, and as such have received flattering notices by the press of the country and have appeared before the most critical audiences of the United States.
The price of admission for reserved seats will be $1.50—the regular price of this company. Seats now on sale at Nasby's.
STRANGE CATSLE DISEASE.—A Sierra Valley dispatch of the 5th says a strange disease is raging in that neighborhood among the cattle. It is estimated that 200 have gone blind within the last month. This is, no doubt, a disease similar, if not alike, to that which prevailed in the vicinity of Sisson this summer. Nearly all cattle went blind, but after a few weeks fully recovered.
LEASED THE TALLULA.—A. Farrington, of the Reno Reduction Works, and G. McM. Ross have leased the Tallulah mine at Dun Glen. Some years ago the mine was among the most prominent in Humboldt county, but it has not been worked of late, and it is greatly to be hoped that it will prove to be one of the most productive.
Sam Longabaugh, of Empire, was in town yesterday, but departed for the Bay last night.

The Perfection.
Of the age in the medical line is the liquid fruit remedy, Syrup of Figs, manufactured only by the California Fig Syrup Company, San Francisco, California. It is agreeable to the taste, acceptable to the stomach, harmless in its nature, painless yet prompt and thorough in its action. Sold by Wm. Pinner, Reno.
An Explanation.
What is this "nervous trouble" with which so many seem now to be afflicted? If you will remember a few years ago the word malaria was comparatively unknown,—to-day it is as common as any word in the English language, yet this word covers only the meaning of another word used by our forefathers in times past. So it is with nervous diseases, as they and malaria are intended to cover what our grandfathers called biliousness, and all are caused by troubles that arise from a diseased condition of the liver which, in performing its functions, acting as a depot of the bile through the ordinary channels is compelled to pass it off through the system, causing nervous troubles, Malaria, Bilious Fever, etc. You who are suffering can well appreciate a cure. We recommend Green's August Flower. Its cures are marvelous.
Advice to Mothers.
Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhoea, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all the druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle.
